slacked off and he had to lay them off except for occasional work he took the badges away in order to protect the city from vercharge. For instance, he said, if these xtra drivers had been allowed to keep the badges all they would have to de was to present themselves every morning at 6:30 at the stables and if there was no work for them to go away and draw a full day's. pay of $2.51.

The executive committee of the strikers met last night in Murphy's Hall, Forty-ninth street and Eighth avenue, with the committee representing the United Teamsters of America which saw Commissioner Craven. According to George W. Prescott of the committee Mr. Craven told them in answer their demands that they would have to go higher up, meaning to Mayor McClellan.

"It has been decided," said Prescott a'ter last night's meeting, "to call out the Brooklyn drivers to-morrow. We will try to see the Mayor on Monday, and if he refuses to meet us the sweepers who have to be held back will go on strike."

On account of the trouble in the Street Cleaning Department Mayor McClellan and his staff remained on duty all day yesterday instead of taking the usual half holiday. He will also be at the City Hall to-day, an unusual thing for a city official. so that he will be near at hand if his services are needed.

Dr. Darlington said vesterday that there was no immediate fear of epidemics, and othernofficials said that there was no great danger and that outside of the very great movance and discomfort to the people f the East Side-and the residents of other streets where the garbage had not been collected for several days no serious result the overplus of refuse was prosecuted vigorously.

Besides the men of the Health Department and outsiders who were pressed into service by Sanitary Superintendent Bensel 150 of the drivers who did not strike were at work under the direction of the Street Cleaning Department. This made 260 men in all. At Stable A there were forty-three carts and thirty-one of them stuck to the job in spite of the threats and persuasions of the strikers. Eighteen carts were also sent out from Stable G.

But earlier in the morning a gang of been brought from the Otisville sanitarium, which is being built by the Department, were scattered by a band of strikers and their sympathizers, who had gathered at Avenue C and Seventeenth street. The health men broke for shelter. A bunch of fifty-five employees of the Health Department who were recruited from various institutions where they are regularly employed declined to start out with the carts. work and they were all discharged by Sunt Bensel. Most of them had life jobs and were earning from $900 to $1,000 a

The police protection afforded to the strikebreakers throughout the day was ample and very satisfactory to Gen. Bingham and the Mayor. The Police Commissioner had before him yesterday aftercoon the five inspectors whose districts are affected and he gave orders that the men who were working on the carts in operation should have all the protection necessary. All the reserves who are in stations in the affected districts were held for duty should any violence arise over the dispute.

Among those who called on the Mayor esterday in regard to the fuss was a deleration of the federation of Jewish organivations of the State. They were headed v Joseph Barondess, the ex-labor leader. who told the Mayor that the conditions on the East Side were "terrible."

"I grant that the strikers are wrong." raid Barondess, "and I do not appeal for hem. I am here because of the great danger of an epidemic on the East Side. I believe, Mr. Mayor, that you are doing all possible to help in the matter. But we believe that the strikers should be asked to return to work immediately and that heir demands should be submitted to ar tration by a committee appointed by you

"I cannot abate a jot of any of my responsibilities," said Col. McClellan. "These men should return to work. I am willing to listen to any grievances they may have and if they have been unjustly treated they will get full justice."

Another of the delegation said he was there on behalf chiefly of children of the Fast Side who suffer from the filth. He complained that they could not sleep at

The Mayor assured the delegation that Supt. Bensel had the situation almost in hand and that by to-day the city would his written resignation in the hands of have complete control.

Health Commissioner Darlington and Dr. Bensel expressed themselves last night as entirely satisfied with the start that had been made and were convinced that within a few days there would have been accomolished a great deal more than they had expected would be done when they first got on the job Friday afternoon.

Dr. Darlington said that it was too bad that they did not get started before yestorday. They would have been able to have procured all the men that they wanted under other conditions, but because of the helf holiday it was difficult to fill the places of the striking drivers at once.

Dr. Darlington and Dr. Bensel in department automobiles were everywhere esterday, and with the assistance of the police were able to get things moving. V-hile Dr. Darlington was extremely active !: mself and was at the trouble centres he wished it known that Dr. Bensel was doing e work and to him and to the Health Propartment he wanted the credit to go.

The Health Department placed on every cart that went out a pasteboard sign setting rth that the Health Department was in charge of the vehicle. Naturally the rain was a hindrance to the work but there vere more than a hundred carts sent out the department. On each cart there ere two men, and with each batch of six rts went eight policemen. They acnpanied the carts through the streets

I to the dumps Dr. Darlington said that any old driver to would apply for work would be taken n and that they could have work as long 13 the Health Department was in charge the cleaning of streets. He intimated hat those who had forfeited their positions .m the Street Cleaning Department by remaining away more than five days might get their jobs back if they would come to work now

Woman Prisoner Says She Resented an Order for Such a Use of Beer.

Mrs. Hannah Engelhard of 148 East Third street put up a novel defence in the Yorkville police court yesterday when arraigned on a charge of disorderly con-

She said that she was on her way home with a can of beer when a policeman ordered her to throw the beer on a heap of garbage that was burning. She didn't propose to make such a poor use of the beer and had a few warm words with the policeman, who thereupon arrested her.

Magistrate Barlow seemed to be amused by her explanation but did not express an opinion as to a policeman's right to use another's beer as first aid to the Fire Department.

The woman took from her pocket a permit which the Park Commissioner had issued allowing her to walk barefooted on the grass of Tompkins Square Park shortly after sunrise. She is a believer in getting next to nature. Several policemen said they frequently saw her tramping the park at dawn. She usually has two cate and a small dog with her.

The woman said she used to be a "little mother" in a Russian regiment that was or duty in Siberia. This was after she had left Germany, where she was born, to become a governess in the home of a Russian Count who was afterward killed by the nihilists. Policeman Stobbe of the Fifth street station, who arrested her, told the Magistrate that he did not order her to throw the in that neighborhood would almost produce a riot. He put out the fire himself and when she insisted upon starting it again he arrested her.

"I find you guilty, but I'll suspend sentence," the Court said to the prisoner.

PARIS, June 29 .- Americans to a very noticeable degree are able to impress themselves on the summer life of Paris Just as at home in New York during the hottest weather, when the residents as far as possible flee and the city takes on much the character of a watering place for Southerners who flock to it, so Paris at this season, half deserted by its regulars, takes on the aspect of an American summer resort. only here the Americans come in tides which wax and wane.

Two months ago the streets began to resound with English speech. Some was in the mouths of Britishers, but a vastly greater part was the English of the United States. By the Grand Prix date the restaurants had as many Americans as French regularly and the contrast between the great week which came to an end then and to-day is most marked. The tide has been ebbing, but it is a tide that seemingly has no slack and those whose business it is to prepare for the inrish are saying that the American visitors will reach the flood again in the middle of July.

Notwithstanding the great exodus that there always is after the Grand Prix, Paris still apparently filled with Americans. They are met everywhere, on the boulevards, at the monuments, in the restaurants and at the theatres, although the restaurants show hundreds of empty chairs which a fortnight ago all held Brothers Jonathan and sisters, too. The present visitors are more fleeting. The new arrivals replenish the hotels, spend a few days here sightseeing and shopping and then start largely for the château country, which is seen at its best just now, or for the various con-

Roughly speaking, every person employed in manual labor, all domestic servants and all persons employed otherwise than in manual labor whose remuneration does not exceed $1,250 a year come within the act. For all accidents to these, employers are liable. The compensation for partial or total incapacitation cannot exceed $5 a week. Subject to that limitation the basis of compensation will be 50 per cent. of the average weekly earnings.

So long as an employee is incapacitated the payment goes on, though it may be replaced by the purchase of an annuity equal to 75 per cent. of the annual value of the weekly payment. When death results from an injury the maximum com pensation is fixed at $1,500 and the minimum at $750. This goes to the "dependents"heirs would be a better term-who include the parents, grandparents, husband, wife, stepparents, children, stepchildren, brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters. All these relations rank equally, even it illegitimate

If any employee has no dependents the maximum compensation based on medical and funeral expenses is $50. But even a table of affinity is of no use to an em ployer. He may be under the impression that he is employing a man without relations at a liability in case of death of $50, but if an illegitimate relation, even a grandmother, suddenly appears on the scene the liability is immediately converted into $1,500.

A domestic servant who clumsily or spitefully cuts his or her hand or falls down stairs receives compensation so long as he or she is incapacitated. It is seriously doubted whether the bill will prove of real benefit to the working classes. It will certainly be disastrous to workers whom age or partial infirmity render unsafe for any employment, though now such persons often secure work which they are thoroughly competent to perform by reason of the sympathy of employers. It is equally certain to deter large numbers of poorer people from putting honest work in the of their still poorer neighbors. Especially will this be the case in thousands of households where one domestic servant is employed and where boys and men are occasionally, but regularly, employed.

One immediate result of the imminence of the operation of the new bill is the enormous press of work at the insurance offices One large company, which is new to the business, is issuing from 3,000 to 4,000 policies a day to indemnify employers. Another has eight clerks employed merely in opening letters. In all the companies extra clerks have been engaged and men have been drafted from other departments to the accident section The officers report that while small people such as individual housekeepers are well alive to their responsibilities, great banks, shipping and mercantile companies seem apathetic in regar ! to the risks.

Kaiser's Visit to Windsor and Ministry's Shutdown on Loans the Chief Causes -Millions in Bank May Seek Outlet -American Securities Likely to Soar Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

London, June 29 .- Within a few days there has come a remarkable change in the financial situation. All the markets week ago had reached a point of depresion unknown to the present generation, a condition such as only a general war or an equally great calamity could adequately explain. This had gradually come about when trade was good and the country on

There is now substantial evidence of an improvement and of returning confidence. There are two visible reasons for this. One is the announcement that the Kaiser will visit the King at Windson Castle in November. This is interpreted to mean that no evils need be apprehended from a disturbed European situation in the

The other reason is the Government's announcement that there will be no attempt to float a Transvaal or other public loan during the present year. The financial world sees in this an indication that the Campbell-Bannerman Government has at last awakened to the effects of its reckless treatment of the business interests of the country and that it will restrain perhaps some of its socialistic tendencies. Consols on this news bounded up a point and a half and there was a corresponding improvement in all sections of the market.

The public is still quite aloof, but as soon as people have regained confidence there will be a substantial revival, for there is plenty of money lying idle. The deposits in ten London banks are now £14,-000,000 greater than they were a year ago. The English estimate is that the American situation is improving Thus an influential authority says to-day:

"The programme of railroads and industrial corporations in America has perforce been curtailed owing to the impossibility of raising the money involved and only the most essential improvements will be carried out for the time being. Hence what threatened to result in a general breakdown of credit in the United States as an outcome of overtrading looks like being averted, at all events for the present. "Since the fall in stock exchange values recently has been heavier in American securities than in any other group, and since t was in that quarter that the most serious alarm was felt many good judges believed that the principal recovery in the immediate future will come from the other side of the in this country as the Smallpox Nurse, having been employed in many cities during epidemics of the disease, taking charge of the isolated districts. He was learned in medicine and could have commanded a diploma but for his dissipated habits. When Hackettstown had a smallpox epidemic a few years ago Burchard volunteered to take charge of the cases and was given full power to act by the board of health. He succeeded in keeping down the mortality and confined the disease to the locality in which it broke out. For this he was liberally rewarded.
